

Homework

words & music by Scot Cannon

I don't understand what homework is.
Why must it come with us where we live?
Why can't it stay in school with the books?
Or let the teacher keep it in her desk where we can't look.
Work is never something I try to do at home.
I'd rather be outside with friends or in my room alone.
Ho! Ho!

(Chorus)

Where's your test?	I lost it in the shower.
History?	I've been working on it for hours.
Reading notes?	My mother baked them in a pie.
Science project?	Eaten by a fly.
Health?	Gone.
Math?	Bye, Bye.
Excuse?	I cannot lie.

I don't understand what homework is.
Why can't we do our work in school then just take a quiz?
We could save our teachers time working after dark.
We could take the afternoon off and play baseball in the park.
Listening to music or walking with my fish.
No homework, no schoolwork, that would be my wish.
Ho! Ho!

(Chorus) Where's your test? .....

I don't understand what homework is.
Why must it come with us where we live?
Why can't it stay in school with the books?
Or let the teacher keep it in her desk where we can't look.
Work is never something I try to do at home.
I'd rather be outside with friends or in my room alone.
Ho! Ho!

Copyright 1997 by Scot Cannon